

Training Nuggets

Bite-Size

April 28, 2026

JUST FOR GRINS:

My best friend moved into her new igloo last week and I threw her a housewarming party...

Now she's homeless!

SELLING SMARTER:

Learn from your mistakes. When a sale doesn't go as expected, step back and evaluate. Growth comes from reflection. What could you have done differently? Are there parts of your process that you can improve? Try reaching out to a peer to see if they've been in a similar situation and how they handled it. Experience and teammates are great teachers.

SERVICE SPOTLIGHT:

"You'll have to..." - When you tell customers and clients what they "have to" do it sounds an order or command. People don't like to be ordered around or commanded to do things. Instead of telling people what they "have to" do, try softening your words and use "you'll need to...". This slight adjustment comes across with a courteous and polite attitude.

OWN YOUR SCHEDULE:

Unsubscribe. If you're like many of us, you have intentionally or unintentionally signed up for too many distribution lists, marketing emails, or text messages. Instead of spending time deleting messages or letting them clutter your inboxes, take time to unsubscribe from the unimportant lists and save time scrolling, deleting, or avoiding them. This will minimize your stress and maximize your time.

FEATURED WORKSHOP - NEXT LEVEL POWERPOINT (3.5 HRS)

PowerPoint is more than just presentations. Unlock features that turn ordinary slides into dynamic learning and performance tools. Discover new ways to teach, train, and persuade that leave you saying "I didn't know PowerPoint could do that!". Get ready for 25 tips you didn't know you needed!

